

Whānau Māori and Pacific people's experiences in stroke services

Services could influence people's well-being after stroke in positive or negative ways.

1. Feeling (dis)connected from what makes me “come alive”

2. “I would like to see.. quick support around the whānau”

3. Being supported to get back into the community

6. Staff who work “from the heart” are important

7. Services were confusing and hard to access

4. Meeting other people who are “in the same boat”

5. “Know me before you fix me”
